

Alaska Division of Agriculture Hemp Program

Registration Number Designation

To produce, process or sell Industrial Hemp in the State of Alaska a person must apply for and become registered with the Alaska Industrial Hemp Pilot Program in accordance with 11 AAC Chapter 40. Once a person's application is received and approved by the division, each registrant will receive a unique identifier (registration number) on a form from the division. Until a person receives this form containing their unique identifier, you are not officially registered with the Alaska Industrial Hemp Pilot Program and may not legally produce, process and or sell industrial hemp or industrial hemp products.

For your information, registration numbers are generated using the following criteria:

This is not a real, industrial hemp registration number; it is an illustration of what information is used to generate an approved registration number once an application is received and approved by the division.*
